April 1-2, 2020: National Brownfields Leadership Summit
Washington, DC
10:30am-11:30am  Expanding the Sandbox: Integrating Federal Funding into your Capital

This session spotlights federal grants, loans and technical assistance to support brownfield activities throughout all stages of the redevelopment process. We’ll cover funding for sustainability and smart growth, best practices in layering federal funds, and case studies to show how it all comes together. We will also hear how EPA is working to expand the brownfields redevelopment sandbox by coordinating with other federal agencies.

David Lloyd | Director, Office of Brownfields and Land Revitalization | U.S. EPA
Toby Rittner | President and CEO | Center for Development Finance Agencies

11:30am-12:30pm  Disaster Funding and Brownfield Financing: Beyond EPA Grants

Increasing incidence and severity of disasters has impacts for brownfield redevelopment. Disasters can generate brownfields and introduce uncertainty into sites that have previously been assessed, remediated, or even closed. This session will tackle sources and applications of disaster funding as they relate to brownfields, and will explore the intersection of climate and land reuse strategies to promote recovery and resilience. You'll hear case studies from practitioners and federal agencies that manage pre-disaster mitigation programs.

Jonathan Halfon, Regional Coordinator - Community Planning and Capacity Building, Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA)

12:30pm-1:30pm  Luncheon Keynote/Lunch

Alan Mallach | Senior Fellow | Center for Community Progress and the National Housing Institute, Author of The Divided City: Poverty and Prosperity in Urban America

1:30pm-2:30pm  Where Rubber Meets Road: Transportation and Brownfield Redevelopment

Transportation, infrastructure and brownfields represent the redevelopment trifecta, and while U.S. EPA plays a central role in managing brownfields, other federal agencies like U.S. DOT also facilitate the cleanup and reuse of contaminated land through their projects. This session will highlight U.S. DOT’s role in brownfield projects, how DOT funding and policy overlap (or don’t) with EPA, and opportunities to use DOT resources in your next project. Additionally, we will hear from practitioners about how their project is threading the regulatory and financial needle to generate new transit-oriented development.

Erika Young | Director, Strategic Partnerships | Smart Growth America
Beth Osborne | Director, Transportation for America | Smart Growth America
2:30pm-3:00pm  Coffee break

3:00pm-4:00pm  Survey of Tax policies to Support Brownfield Redevelopment

This interactive session will survey state tax incentive programs and compare the approaches and merits of different programs. What approaches are most effective? Most heavily utilized? What do the data demonstrate about the efficacy of tax incentive programs? You’ll also hear an update on the status of the federal Brownfields Tax Incentive, which sunset in 2011.

Meredith Hendricks | Executive Director | Center For Creative Land Recycling

-----------*Summit programming beyond this point cannot be reimbursed using EPA funding---------------

4:00pm-4:45pm  Relaunching the National Brownfields Coalition

The National Brownfields Coalition has long been a way for non-profit organizations, academics, and public and private sector professionals to build support for the policies and practices that support the cleanup and remediation of contaminated, blighted, and environmentally impacted land. Building on momentum that started last September, SGA and CCLR will reintroduce the Coalition to participants, discuss the role that coalitions play in advancing policy and practice, and talk about how we can create a stronger network of people looking to improve the public health and economy of their communities.

Erika Young | Director, Strategic Partnerships | Smart Growth America
Meredith Hendricks | Executive Director | CCLR
Rich Gold | Partner | Holland & Knight

4:45pm-5:15pm  Becoming and Staying an Engaged Advocate for Brownfield Redevelopment

Erika Young | Director, Strategic Partnerships | Smart Growth America
Patrick Kirby | Director | Northern West Virginia Brownfields Assistance Center
Joel Markland | President | BCA Environmental Consultants, LLC

5:15pm-6:30pm  Reception

April 2, 2020: DAY 2 Hill Day: Senate Hart Building, Room SH-902, 120 Constitution Ave NE

8:30am-9:00am  Coffee on Capitol Hill

9:00am-10:00am  Meeting of National Brownfield Coalition: Advocacy
10:00am-11:00am  Brownfields Briefing with Congressional Staff

This session will feature remarks from key Congressional leaders on the new brownfields law, presentations on other important federal policies, and two local case studies highlighting the importance of federal brownfields policies to local revitalization.

11:00am-4:00pm  Meetings with Congressional Offices

Teams of local brownfields leaders will meet with members of Congress and their staff to showcase successful local projects and discuss ways to strengthen the federal-local brownfields partnership.

4:00pm-5:30pm  Debrief about your experiences on Capitol Hill/Happy Hour - local bar

*Please note:

Federal funds can support your travel and attendance at the Summit for the educational portion of the program on April 1st. However, because federal funds cannot support advocacy, participation in activities after 4:00pm on April 1st and throughout Hill Day (April 2nd) may not be supported with EPA grant funds. EPA grantees who attend Hill Day must ensure that no federal grant funds support the portion of their travel that relates to advocacy. For more information on how to handle the financial restrictions that your grant imposes on legislative advocacy, view this document. For other specific questions related to grant funding for travel, please ask your EPA grant manager.
